

LEARNING TO WORK THROUGH THE GROUP

WHERE TEAM BUILDING MEETS DIVERSITY & INCLUSION

ABOUT

As Director of Mellem Education for over ten years, Tali is an experienced facilitator in corporate and organizational settings. Tali has delivered trainings across Europe and the US in the fields of intercultural communication, conflict management, leadership, diversity & inclusion. Tali has a PhD from Copenhagen Business School in the area of Management Learning.

TESTIMONIAL

"The workshop prompted us to look at ourselves in a new way. It was educational. You can get tired of smart consultants with PowerPoint presentations to train executives. Tali's approach is present and involves everyone in a new and inspiring way with focus on the participants." – Katja, Boligkontoret Danmark

TRAINING OFFERING

Mellem Education combines team building with diversity & inclusion into one training that leverages the natural diversity that comes out of any working group and allows the group to reflect on their own dynamics. The process is fun and serious, playful and reflective, and gives the group a chance to transform their habits and routines, a rare opportunity not taken in the hustle and bustle of working life. Through group work and playful activities, the group gets a chance to examine themselves and their practices, bringing to light unconscious dynamics and breaking unproductive routines. By doing this, they have a chance to create a more inclusive and pleasant atmosphere in the workplace, enhancing their well-being, workplace satisfaction and productivity.
